Question #2 of 186

The following scenarios involve two analysts at Dupree Asset Management, a small New York-based company with about $150 million in assets under management. Dupree restricts personal trading of stocks analyzed, corporate directorships, trustee positions, and other special relationships that could reasonably be considered a conflict of interest with their responsibilities to their employer.

- Ray Bolt, CFA, is a senior investment analyst. Bolt was recently elected to the board of trustees of his alma mater, Midwest University, and was appointed as the chairman of the University's endowment committee. Midwest has more than $2 billion in its endowment. Bolt must travel from New York to Chicago eight times a year to attend meetings of the board of trustees and endowment committee. Bolt did not inform Dupree of his involvement with Midwest University.
- Wanda Delvecco, a candidate in the CFA Program, is a junior investment analyst. She recently wrote a research report on Aveco Communications and recommended the stock for Dupree's "buy" list. Delvecco bought 200 shares of Aveco stock for her personal account 12 months before she wrote her research report. Over the past 12 months, the stock's price has been in the $20-42 price range. Delvecco has not informed Dupree of her ownership of Aveco stock.

According to CFA Institute Standards of Professional Conduct, which the following statements about Bolt and Delvecco's actions is CORRECT?

- A) Delvecco violated the Standards, but Bolt did not.

- B) Both Bolt and Delvecco violated the Standards.
  - C) Neither Bolt nor Delvecco violated the Standards.

Question #17 of 186

Using as his universe all companies in the steel industry, Reynold Anderson analyses the performance of stock prices for the industry. He succeeds in developing a regression model with excellent statistical control measures. The extrapolation from the model shows low risk variance of the securities in this industry. Without the inclusion of non-steel stocks in the portfolio, Anderson concludes that, based on these results, every portfolio can use the steel industry securities to diversify and lower its risk. He persuades his clients to change their current portfolios. Anderson states that, as the model's results show, some particular industries, such as car manufacturers, have underpriced stocks, and investors should take advantage of it. Anderson has violated the Standards because he:

- A) does not consider the suitability of the investment.
  - B) does not distinguish the opinion, based on his model, from the fact.
  - C) is not clear enough about the model results.

Question #25 of 186

Janet Olson, CFA, is an analyst at Quantech Associates. Olson attended a conference at which Brian Wright presented several proprietary computerized spreadsheets that he had developed to value high-tech stocks. While at the conference, Olson copied the spreadsheets without Wright's knowledge. Later, Olson made several minor changes to Wright's initial model. After testing the revised model, Olson was impressed with the results. As inputs for the model, she used factual materials supplied by Moody's Investors Service, a recognized financial and statistical reporting service. Olson wrote a research report describing the revised model and its results and distributed the report to Quantech's clients. According to CFA Institute Standards of Professional Conduct, which of the following actions is Olson required to take? Olson is:

- A) required to acknowledge Moody's Investors Service as the source of the data but is not required to seek authorization from Wright to copy the spreadsheets or to acknowledge Wright for developing the initial model
  - B) required to seek the authorization from Wright to copy the spreadsheets, acknowledge Wright for developing the initial model but is not required to acknowledge Moody's Investors Service as the source of the data
  - C) required to seek authorization from Wright to copy the spreadsheets and acknowledge Wright for developing the initial model and Moody's Investors Service as the source of the data

Joan Platt, CFA, operates an investment firm in New York, but maintains an office in Xania. Platt's firm invests on its clients' behalf in both domestic and international stocks and bonds. Platt's employees include two analysts, Paula Linstrom, CFA, and Hershel Wadel, a member of the CFA Institute. Both analysts report to Platt directly. Thorvald Knudsen, CFA, manages the international bond portfolio.

Xania recently established a stock market, which is not very efficient. None of the Xanian stocks trade in the U.S. market. Xania legally permits the use of material inside information. Platt believes that using inside information would help her compete against other Xanian investment advisers, and also help some of her Xanian clients reach their investment objectives.

Platt instructs Wadel to write a research report on Gamma Company. Wadel's wife inherited 500 shares of Gamma Company from her father when he died five years ago. Gamma stock currently sells for $35 a share. Wadel does not believe that informing Platt about his wife's inheritance is necessary.

Doris Black, one of Wadel's long-time clients, verbally promised Wadel that he could use her vacation home in Aspen, Colo., for a week during skiing season if the return on her portfolio exceeded its benchmark by two percentage points during the next year. Black also promised to reimburse Wadel for his travel expenses. Because Wadel is the sole manager of Black's portfolio, he says nothing to Platt about his arrangement with Black.

Platt instructs Linstrom to write a research report on Delta Enterprises. Delta's stock is widely held by institutional and individual investors. Linstrom does not own any Delta shares, though one of her friends owns 100 shares of Delta. Linstrom does not believe that informing Platt about her friend's ownership of Delta shares is necessary.

Linstrom has a client, Mandy Miller, with a large account. Miller has set a return goal for her portfolio, promising Linstrom that if the portfolio exceeded the target return, she would let Linstrom use her time-share in St. Maarten in December. Linstrom sent an e-mail to Platt describing Miller's promise to her. Platt promptly replied to her email granting her permission to enter the agreement.

In February, Linstrom was able to arrange for the purchase of Brady Company bonds at a significant discount to market value. The purchase was made in three blocks at 13%, 15%, and 12% discounts to market value. Linstrom allocated the 15% discount block to Miller's account and the balance to her remaining clients.

Knudsen's uncle, Gustaf Jensen, owns a construction firm that has extra cash. When Jensen saw Knudsen at a family event last November, he asked Knudsen to give him advice about purchasing domestic bonds for the construction firm. In exchange for the advice, the construction firm would pay Knudsen $5,000 per year. At the same event, Knudsen's aunt, Hanna Jorgensen, approached Knudsen and asked if he would manage Jorgensen's apartment building for a fee of 10% of the gross rents. Knudsen agreed to both Jensen's and Jorgensen's proposals. Knudsen informed Platt of Jensen's request, but not about the Jorgensen arrangement.

Platt suspects that one of the firm's unpaid interns has violated a federal securities regulation.

Question #26 of 186

Regarding their research reports, which of the following statements about Linstrom and Wadel's conduct is CORRECT?

- A) Wadel did not violate Standard VI(A)—Disclosure of Conflicts, and Linstrom did violate Standard VI(A).
  - B) Both Linstrom and Wadel violated Standard VI(A)—Disclosure of Conflicts.
  - C) Wadel violated Standard VI(A)—Disclosure of Conflicts, and Linstrom did not violate Standard VI(A).

Question #39 of 186

Albert Long, CFA, manages portfolios of high net worth individuals for HKB Corp. Alice Thurmont, one of his close friends, heads a local charity for homeless children that depends on donations to operate. Because donations have declined during the past year, the charity is experiencing financial difficulty. Thurmont asks Long to give her a partial list of his clients so that she can contact them to make tax-deductible donations. Because Long knows that the charity provides much benefit to the community, he provides Thurmont with the requested list.

Betty Short, CFA, also works for HKB Corp. She receives a letter from CFA Institute's Professional Conduct Program (PCP) requesting that she provide information about one of HKB's clients who is being investigated. Short complies with the request despite the confidential nature of the information requested by the PCP.

Based on Standard III(E), Preservation of Confidentiality, which of the following statements about Long and Short's actions is CORRECT?

- A) Long violated Standard III(E) but Short did not violate Standard III(E).
- B) Short violated Standard III(E) but Long did not violate Standard III(E).

Mary Montpier, CFA, is an equity analyst located in the Malaysia office of World Class Advisers. The firm provides investment advice and financial-planning services globally to institutional and retail clients. The Malaysia office was opened last year to provide additional international investment opportunities for U.S. clients. Montpier covers small-cap stocks in the region. Montpier's supervisor, Rick Reynolds, CFA, works in New York.

Jim Taylor is an analyst in New York who works at World Class Broker-Dealer, a sister company of World Class Advisers. Taylor covers healthcare and biotech stocks for the firm. Taylor recently completed Level I of the CFA examination and is registered for the Level II examination next year. Taylor works for John James, CFA.

Through her interaction with other analysts in Malaysia, Montpier learns that the use of material, nonpublic information is common practice in analyst research reports and recommendations, which is not prohibited by law in Malaysia. Montpier has acquired material, nonpublic information on the research pipeline of Circuit Secrets, a Malaysian semiconductor company. The nonpublic information makes the company seem like a fine investment. After extensive research through traditional means, Circuit Secrets appeared to be fully valued relative to its growth potential until Montpier found the nonpublic information.

In preparation for a client meeting, James asks Taylor to prepare a research report on attractive companies in the healthcare industry. Since Taylor is busy preparing for company conference calls, James tells him to "throw something together." To meet James' request, Taylor obtains reports on Immune Health Care and Remedy Corp., two companies that he likes, but has not researched in depth. Taylor takes the original reports, which were prepared by a small brokerage firm in the Netherlands, adds some general industry information, incorporates World Class's proprietary earnings-growth model, and submits "strong buy" recommendations to James for the stocks. Although written procedures require James to review all analyst reports prior to release, time constraints consistently prevent him from reviewing the reports prior to distribution.

Montpier is proud of her CFA charter. In fact, she often boasts that she is one of the elite members of the CFA Institute that passed all three exams consecutively without failing. Taylor is also proud of the CFA program. He told his friends and family the CFA designation is globally recognized in the field of investment management and research. Furthermore, Taylor states that he believes the program will enhance his portfolio management skills and further his career development.

In her free time, Montpier has begun consultation for members of a local investment club. The club is in the process of developing an appropriate compensation package for her services, which to date have included financial-planning activities and investment research. Montpier informs the investment club that she has a full-time job at World Class Advisers, which offers similar services. The investment club gave Montpier written permission to consult for them despite her full-time work.

To gain insight on biotech stocks, Taylor registers for an upcoming asthma study conducted by Breakthrough Corp., through which he and others will be the subject of testing for the efficacy of several new drugs. On his application, longtime asthma sufferer Taylor indicates that he has the appropriate medical condition for the study and signs a confidentiality agreement. During the study, a researcher shows Taylor a spreadsheet detailing the progress of Breakthrough's research pipeline. Two of the new drugs on which Breakthrough is awaiting regulatory approval have serious negative side effects in patient testing. This information confirms suspicions Taylor had developed after extensive research and conversations with company executives regarding nonmaterial, nonpublic information, though he was not certain about the names of the drugs until he saw the spreadsheet. At the conclusion of the study, Taylor releases a report detailing the drugs' side effects and recommends that clients "sell" Breakthrough Corp.

Over the next two weeks, Breakthrough releases information that the drugs in question have been held up by a regulatory agency pending additional investigation. The stock plunges more than 30% on the news.

Question #41 of 186

Which of the following is a violation of the Code and Standards?

- A) Reynolds approves Montpier's report on Circuit Secrets immediately, but tells his traders to wait a week before buying the stock themselves.
- B) James has dinner with Taylor and promises to provide Taylor with three weeks off in May to study for the CFA exam and offer some test-taking tips.
- C) Taylor sends out a resume referring to himself as a Level II CFA candidate and indicating his intention to take the Level II test in June.

LMS Securities is a boutique broker-dealer specializing in private placements for technology companies. The firm also provides aftermarket support for the companies that go public after private rounds of financing. This support includes market making and research coverage.

Susan Jones, CFA, is an analyst at LMS Securities. She is responsible for a subset of the companies for which LMS offers research coverage. She recently received her annual CFA Institute Professional Conduct statement, but has not yet filled it out and turned it in. Steve Brown is an analyst who directs the due diligence process for LMS Securities' private placements. Brown passed the Level II exam five years ago, and has registered for the Level III exam every year since then, but has never taken it. He is registered for the Level III CFA exam next June, but nobody at the office believes he will actually take the test.

Sunrise Technologies is a longtime client of LMS Securities. LMS arranged four levels of private financing, for Sunrise, providing in-depth business consulting as well as handling all of the private placements. Sunrise went public 90 days ago and is currently trading at $14 per share.

Kenneth Karloff, CEO of LMS Securities, instructed Jones to write a favorable research report on Sunrise Technologies right before the company went public, setting a price target of at least $30 per share. Jones has developed a number of alternative cash flow projections for Sunrise Technologies. She picks an optimistic scenario to justify a $30 price target and issues a positive report using those projections.

After Sunrise Technologies has gone public, Karloff decides to help Jones to write a more-detailed research report on the company. Karloff provides Jones with information about the product pipeline and sensitive patent litigation that was given to him in confidence by Sunrise executives while the company was private. Given the product pipeline and legal outlook, Jones revises her cash flow models to reflect greater growth, then writes a positive report and advises LMS's clients to buy the stock.

LMS Securities has an arrangement with Clampett Securities, an investment adviser, under which the investment manager uses its client brokerage to obtain LMS's research. Clampett manages accounts for wealthy individual investors. About half of Clampett's clients have a growth objective, while the rest seek income.

Question #95 of 186

Todd Gable, CFA, was attending a noon luncheon when he overheard two software executives talking about a common vendor, Datagen, about how wonderful they thought the company was, and about a rumor that a major brokerage firm was preparing to issue a strong buy recommendation on the stock. Gable returned to the office, checked a couple of online sources, and then placed an order to purchase Datagen in all of his discretionary portfolios. The orders were filled within an hour. Three days later, a brokerage house issued a strong buy recommendation and Datagen's share price went up 20%. Gable then proceeded to gather data on the stock and prepared a report that he dated the day before the stock purchase.

Gable has:

- A) violated the Standards by using the recommendation of another brokerage firm in his report.
  - B) violated the Standards by not having a reasonable basis for making the purchase of Datagen.
  - C) violated the Standards by improper use of inside information.

Rolf Lindquist, a CFA charterholder, is a portfolio manager at Midwestern Investment Management, a firm catering to high-net-worth individual clients. Lindquist has worked in the investment industry for 10 years, the first four years with KMGR and the last six with Midwestern. In advertising material, Lindquist reports his investment performance over the last 10 years without identifying the first four years as being achieved at KMGR.

Lindquist sits on the board of directors of Western Inns, a hotel chain. In return for his services on the board, he receives free lodging from Western when he travels for business and pleasure. He currently holds no Western stock in any of his clients' portfolios, although in the recent past some of these portfolios have included Western. Lindquist discusses his Western directorship with his supervisor, but because he does not receive any monetary compensation, he does not formally disclose this arrangement in writing to his employer or his clients.

Lindquist manages the portfolio of Martha Olson. Last year, Lindquist beat the benchmark portfolio for Olson by 180 basis points. In appreciation for that performance, Olson gives Lindquist two third-row tickets to the NCAA basketball championship. Lindquist discloses this gift to his employer. Lindquist also receives a two-week, expense-paid trip to Paris from Boston and Co., a brokerage firm, in return for providing Boston with business during the year.

Lindquist also manages the portfolio of Jerry Chandler, a conservative investor with a low tolerance for risk. Lindquist recommends the purchase of equity index put options on the equity portion of Chandler's portfolio. Lindquist educates Chandler on the risks and rewards of such a strategy, including the risk that equity prices will increase and that this would cause the value of the put options will fall.

Midwestern has developed a proprietary model that has been thoroughly researched and is known throughout the industry as the Midwestern model. The model is purely quantitative and screens stocks into buy, hold, and sell categories. The basic philosophy of the model is thoroughly explained to clients. The director of research frequently alters the model based on rigorous research—an aspect that is disclosed to clients, although the specific alterations are not continually disclosed. Portfolio managers then make specific sector and security holding decisions, purchasing only securities that are indicated as "buys" by the model. Lindquist modifies the model on an experimental basis by adding factors he reads about in the financial press, but does not back test the results. When making trading decisions, he applies his own version of the model, which is occasionally in conflict with the Midwestern model. Lindquist discloses his use of this experimental model to his own clients, but not to his supervisor.

Question #99 of 186

Regarding the Paris trip, Lindquist:

- A) cannot accept the gift without disclosing it to his employer.
- B) cannot accept the gift under any circumstances.
- C) can accept the gift if he determines, in consultation with his employer, that accepting the gift would not compromise his objectivity.

In August 2005, the following events occurred related to Aggregate Opportunities, Inc.:

- Aug. 8: The Wall Street Journal reported that Aggregate Opportunities had inflated its 2004 earnings due to questionable accounting practices. The story was based on interviews with unnamed sources within Aggregate and its auditor, Millennium Partners. On that day the stock fell 42 percent to $12.50 from $21.55.
- Aug. 10: At 9 a.m., Aggregate revealed in a conference call to analysts a restatement of earnings for the previous three fiscal years that almost completely erased the reported net income for fiscal years 2002, 2003, and 2004. Aggregate's chief financial officer personally selected the small group of analysts participating in this call. Company officers said the restatement resulted from questionable accounting practices for off-balance sheet limited partnerships. At 1 p.m., the company issued a news release containing the information provided in the conference call. By the end of the trading day the stock had fallen 74 percent to $3.25.

- Aug. 11: At 10 a.m., Aggregate's Chief Financial Officer Buster Lockhart, CFA, publicly announced his resignation, and the Securities and Exchange Commission said it was pursuing an investigation.

During July and August of 2005, the following actions were taken:

- July 20: Michael Cho, CFA, a highly respected analyst with 25 years of experience covering Aggregate's industry, had spent several days reading Aggregate's 10-K and 10-Q documents and other analysis published by some of his competitors at major brokerage houses. Based on his reading and conversations with Aggregate management concerning nonmaterial, nonpublic information, Cho concluded that Aggregate had inflated its earnings. On July 20, Cho issued a detailed research report to his clients and concluded that Aggregate should be sold. He subsequently participated in the Aug. 10 conference call, although it only confirmed what he had already detailed in his July research report.
- Aug. 2: Equity analyst Harold Black, a CFA charterholder, received from his brother information that Aggregate might restate its earnings. Black's brother is a senior partner at Millennium Partners. Based on this information, Black immediately prepared a new research report that advised his clients to sell Aggregate, but did not liquidate his personal holdings in the company.
- Aug. 4: Bob Watkins, a CFA Level II candidate and portfolio manager, was golfing at his club. Approaching the third tee, he heard the chief executive officer and chief financial officer of Aggregate discussing company finances. Concealing himself behind a tree, Watkins overheard them discussing the upcoming Wall Street Journal article and the earnings restatement. Based on this conversation, he immediately sold all Aggregate holdings in his clients' portfolios. Later that day, Watkins told his friend Juan Martinez, CFA, what he learned about Aggregate and how he learned it. Martinez, a subscriber to Cho's research, then read Cho's report on Aggregate. Immediately after finishing Cho's report, Martinez sold the fund's entire stake in Aggregate. Watkins and Martinez were not participants in the Aug. 10 conference call.
- Aug. 8: Barb Henderson, a CFA charterholder, read the Wall Street Journal article in the morning and after going over her research papers, issued a sell recommendation for Aggregate. On Aug. 10, she participated in the conference call and heard the details of the earnings restatement.

- Aug. 10: Lisa Sanders, CFA, participated in the Aggregate conference call. At 10 a.m., she changed her recommendation on Aggregate from hold to sell and informed all of her clients. At 1 p.m., Sanders sold Aggregate from her personal account.

Question #136 of 186

In issuing a sell recommendation for Aggregate, Henderson:

- A) violated none of the Standards.
  - B) violated Standard V(A): Diligence and Reasonable Basis because she lacked sufficient reason to justify the downgrade.
  - C) violated Standard V(B): Communication with Clients and Prospective Clients because she failed to distinguish between fact and opinion.

Question #137 of 186

In selling his clients' holdings in Aggregate, Watkins:

- A) did not violate Standard II(A): Material Nonpublic Information because there was no breach of duty.
  - B) violated Standard II(A): Material Nonpublic Information by taking investment action.
  - C) did not violate Standard II(A): Material Nonpublic Information because the information did not involve a tender offer.

Question #138 of 186

In advising his clients to sell Aggregate, Black:

- A) violated Standard V(A): Diligence and Reasonable Basis because he did not have sufficient information to spur investment action.
- B) violated Standard III(B): Fair Dealing because he did not take his own advice and sell the stock.

- C) did not violate Standard I(B): Independence and Objectivity, but his supervisor violated Standard IV(C): Responsibilities of Supervisors.

Question #139 of 186

After changing her recommendation on Aggregate, Sanders:

- A) violated Standard II(A): Material Nonpublic Information by taking investment action based on information not accessible to the public.

Question #144 of 186

Janet Coleman, CFA, is preparing a research report on Union Power and Light. Due to deregulation, utility companies face increased competition. During the past year, three of the five utility companies in her region have cut their dividends by 50%, on average, to provide more internal funds for investment purposes. In a discussion with Union's chief executive officer, Coleman learned that Union expects to have a record amount of capital expenditures during the next year. Although Union subsequently issued a press release about its capital expenditure plans, it did not make any public statements about a change in dividend policy. Coleman reasons that the management of Union will be under pressure to cut its dividends within the next year to remain competitive. Coleman issues a research report in which she states:

"Union Power and Light will decrease its dividend from $2 to $1 a share by the second quarter. We expect that Union will strengthen its competitive position by using more internally generated funds to finance its investment opportunities. If investors buy the stock now at around $50 a share, their total return could exceed 20% on the stock."

Based on CFA Institute Standards of Professional Conduct, which of the following statements about Coleman's actions is most accurate?

- A) Coleman violated the Standards because she failed to separate opinion from fact in her research report.
  - B) Coleman did not violate the Standards.
  - C) Coleman violated the Standards because she used material nonpublic information.

Question #145 of 186

An analyst finds a stock that has had a low beta given its historical return, but its total risk has been commensurate with its return. When writing a research report about the stock for clients with well-diversified portfolios, according to Standard V(B), Communication with Clients and Prospective Clients, the analyst needs to mention:

- A) both the historical beta and total risk and return.
- B) the relationship of the historical beta and return only.
- C) the relationship of the historical total risk to return only.

Vera Sandro recently joined Seamark Securities as a portfolio manager. Sandro also recently took the Level III examination in the Chartered Financial Analyst program, but has not yet received her results. Seamark is a medium-sized firm that employs many CFA Institute members.

Sandro has been asked by her supervisor, Ledia Ferrazzo, CFA, to write a brief biography to be included in the promotional brochure Sandro hands out to prospective clients. Sandro included the following sentences in her biography: "Vera Sandro, a Chartered Financial Analyst Level III candidate, has focused educational and investment experience in the small-cap stock market. She has consistently achieved better-than-average market returns and expects to do so in the future as well." The brochure was printed and is being used by Sandro as a marketing tool.

Soon after joining Seamark, Sandro attended a conference at which Liam Wright presented several computerized spreadsheets that he had developed to value high-tech stocks. During the presentation, Sandro copied the spreadsheets on her laptop computer. Later, Sandro made major changes to Wright's initial model. After testing the new model, Sandro was impressed with the results. Wright used Standard & Poor's data as inputs for the model, but Sandro used data supplied by Moody's Investors Service. Sandro wrote a research report describing the revised model and its results in detail and sent the report to her biggest client, along with some stock picks selected by the model.

Ferrazzo, the head portfolio manager for Seamark, often meets corporate executives in the course of her evaluation of potential investments. A week ago, Ferrazzo had lunch with Ralph Henderson, a senior vice president of Kellogg Industries, a maker of luxury linens. Ferrazzo told Henderson that she was looking for an appropriate investment in the fabric industry for her large client, Parker Jones. Henderson responded that he thought his company was well-positioned in the market, though he admitted to underestimating the demand for silk sheets in the region. After lunch, Ferrazzo read a research report that said all of Kellogg's silk plants were running at capacity, and the company might have trouble meeting the long-term demand. Two days later, Ferrazzo observed another senior vice president of Kellogg at a restaurant having dinner with the chief financial officer of Bradley Textiles, a maker of various kinds of silk fabrics. It is widely known in the market that Bradley is seeking a potential merger partner, as the founder and CEO is ready to retire.

Ferrazzo did additional research and concluded that Kellogg Industries and Bradley Textiles had complementary product lines in several areas and similar management cultures. She also remembered reading in Forbes a story in which Kellogg's CFO was quoted as saying the company had the financial wherewithal for a merger and an interest in expansion. Ferrazzo's research indicated that Bradley's market value exceeded its intrinsic value, suggesting that Kellogg was unlikely to pay a high merger premium. Nonetheless, Ferrazzo proceeded to purchase stock in Bradley on behalf of her clients. Six months later, Kellogg acquired Bradley and paid a 40 percent premium over market price.

Sandro shares a workspace with Don Wilson, a CFA charterholder. Wilson recommends that one of his clients buy Alpha Co. shares based upon detailed research conducted by a Seamark analyst. Sandro recommends that one of her clients sell Alpha Co. shares based upon comprehensive research conducted by another brokerage firm.

Seamark has evaluated prospective brokers to execute trades on behalf of its investment-management clients. The findings are as follows:

- White Brokerage Co. offers best price and execution, charges an average of $99 for a typical trade, and provides generous soft dollars.

- Green Brokers Inc., offers good price and execution, charges an average of $59 for a typical trade, and provides moderate soft dollars.
- Blue Brokerage Services Inc., offers best price and execution, charges an average of $79 for a typical trade, and provides moderate soft dollars.

Question #147 of 186

With regard to Ferrazzo's purchase of Bradley stock, she violated:

- A) Standard V(A): Diligence and Reasonable Basis, but not Standard II(A): Material Nonpublic Information.
  - B) Standard III(E): Preservation of Confidentiality, but not Standard V(A): Diligence and Reasonable Basis.
  - C) Standard III(E): Preservation of Confidentiality and Standard II(A): Material Nonpublic Information.

Question #154 of 186

Joni Black, CFA, works for a portfolio management firm. Black is a partner of the firm and is primarily responsible for managing several large pension plans. Black has just finished a research report in which she recommends Zeta Corporation as a "Strong Buy." Her rating is based on solid management in a growing and expanding industry. She just handed the report to the marketing department of the firm for immediate dissemination. Upon returning to her desk she notices a news flash by CNN reporting that management for Zeta Corporation is retiring. Black wishes she did not recommend Zeta Corporation as a "Strong Buy," but believes the corporation is still a good investment regardless of the management. What course of action for Black is best? Black:

- A) should report the new information to her immediate supervisor so that they can determine whether or not the marketing department should send out the report as
  - B) should revise the recommendation based on this new information.
  - C) may send out the report as written as long as a follow up is disseminated within a reasonable amount of time reflecting the changes in management.

Question #155 of 186

Preston Partners is an investment management firm that adopted the Code and Standards as part of its policy manual. Gerald Smithson, CFA, has recently added the stock of Utah Biochemical Company and Norgood PLC to all his client's investment portfolios. Shortly afterwards Utah Biochemical and Norgood announced a merger that increased the share price of both companies. Smithson contends he saw the president of Utah Biochemical dining with the chairman of Norgood, but did not overhear their conversation. Smithson researched both companies extensively and determined that each company was a good investment. He put in a block trade for shares in each company. Preston's policies were not clear in this area as he allocated the shares by starting with his largest client accounts and working down to the small accounts. Some of Smithson's clients were very conservative personal trust accounts, others were pension funds who had aggressive investment objectives. Which standard was NOT broken?

- A) Standard V(A)—Diligence and Reasonable Basis.
  - B) Standard III(C)—Suitability.
  - C) Standard IV(C)—Responsibilities of Supervisors.

Question #158 of 186

Bill Fox, CFA, has been preparing a research report on New London Wire and Cable, one of his major investment clients. He had completed much of his analysis and had planned on having his report typed and bound today. Unfortunately, his briefcase was stolen while he ate breakfast, and he lost all his notes and working papers. The lost materials included his notes from management interviews, conversations with suppliers and competitors, dates of company visits, and his computer diskette containing much of his quantitative analysis. Fox's client needs this report tomorrow. In a panic, Fox called New London's vice president of finance and was faxed a copy of the company's most recent financial projections. Fox remembered that his own analysis showed that management's estimates were too high. He did not remember the exact amount, so he revised New London's figures downward 10%. Fox incorporated some charts and graphs on New London from a research report he received last week from a small regional research firm and some information from a Standard & Poor's reference work in his report, without reference to their sources. Fox has:

- A) violated the requirement to have a reasonable basis for a recommendation and the prohibition against plagiarism.
  - B) violated the requirement to have a reasonable basis for a recommendation, the prohibition against plagiarism, and the requirement to maintain appropriate records.
  - C) violated none of the Standards.

Greg Hartsburg, a CFA charterholder, is a leading health-care industry analyst for Reynolds and Co., a New York-based brokerage firm. He has ten years of industry experience and has appeared on the Wall Street Journal's roster of all-star analysts for four straight years.

Hartsburg initiates coverage on Northern Lights Medical Equipment, a Minnesota-based company that designs medical equipment. Hartsburg owns shares of Northern Lights in his personal trading account, a stake of which his company is aware.

Maria Voltaire, a junior analyst working under Hartsburg, has asked the senior analyst to help her prepare for the 2009 Level III CFA exam. He makes himself available to answer her questions on specific topics during the course of her study and gives her two days off, with pay, to study during the week before the exam. He also discusses with her in detail his recollection of the topical areas covered on the 2007 Level III exam, which he took and passed.

One of Reynolds' traders tells Hartsburg that he believes Voltaire is trading in her own account based on information she gathers from research reports written by analysts in the office before the reports are publicly released.

Hartsburg attends an analysts' conference in Toronto. At dinner he is seated close to a table that includes a number of leading analysts in the health-care industry. Hartsburg overhears parts of the conversation, in which the group discusses new trends in the health-care industry as a result of the changing political climate in Washington. The consensus at the table is that trends in the industry are favorable over the next four or five years.

Hartsburg has been in the process of preparing his own detailed industry analysis in which he reaches similar conclusions. The conversation he overhears confirms his own analysis, though one of the analysts, Phil Houston, makes some points about competition in the medical-device area that Hartsburg had not considered. On the plane home that evening, Hartsburg rereads the financial statements of two companies he covers, then concludes that Houston's points about competition are correct.

When he returns home, Hartsburg completes his industry report. In the report he wants to use Houston's ideas. But Houston works for a rival firm, and as a matter of policy, Reynolds does not refer to rival companies in its reports. So Hartsburg pulls some numbers from 10-K reports for context, starts with Houston's premise, and makes a similar point in his own words.

Hartsburg is planning to leave Reynolds at the end of the month to take a position as a portfolio manager at Lone Pine Investments. He has disclosed to Reynolds, in the form of an e-mail message to his supervisor, his intention to take with him to his new position a fundamental factor model that he developed before coming to Reynolds and further refined during his time at Reynolds.

He also discloses plans to take with him three sample client investment policy statements (with the client names eliminated) to use as templates in the development of policy statements for his new clients at Lone Pine. In the e-mail to his supervisor, Hartsburg promises he will not solicit the business of these three clients.

Reynolds hires an outside firm to create a company website. Hartsburg is featured in promotional materials touting the firm's performance. The material reads, in part, "Greg Hartsburg is a Chartered Financial Analyst (CFA) with 10 years of experience in the investment industry. He has appeared on the Wall Street Journal's roster of all-star analysts for four years in a row."

Question #159 of 186

In order to conform to the Code and Standards with relation to Northern Lights stock, Hartsburg MUST:

- A) ask the company to assign another analyst to cover the stock in an effort to avoid the conflict of interest.
  - B) sell the shares before issuing the report.
  - C) directly disclose his holdings or have his company issue a generic disclaimer about analyst stock ownership.

Question #160 of 186

Hartsburg's efforts to help Voltaire pass the CFA exam:

  - B) violate both Standard I(D): Misconduct and Standard VII(A): Conduct as Members and Candidates in the CFA Program.
  - C) conform to all relevant standards.

Question #161 of 186

With respect to the allegation that Voltaire is front-running research recommendations, Hartsburg's first priority, under CFA Institute Standard IV(C) concerning supervisory responsibilities, should be to:

- A) promptly initiate an investigation.
  - B) freeze Voltaire's trading account and begin documenting her conduct as a precursor to possible termination.
  - C) report the situation to his supervisor.

Question #162 of 186

Regarding Hartsburg's report on the health-care industry, his actions:

- A) fail to conform to Standard I(C) concerning misrepresentation; but conform to Standard V(A) concerning diligence and reasonable basis.
  - B) conform to Standard I(C) concerning misrepresentation; and conform to Standard II(A) concerning the use of nonpublic information.
  - C) fail to conform to Standard II(A) concerning the use of nonpublic information; and conform to Standard V(A) concerning diligence and reasonable basis.

Question #163 of 186

Which statement about Hartsburg's actions prior to his leaving Reynolds is most accurate? His actions regarding the factor model:

- A) conform to Standard IV(A): Loyalty to Employer, as do his actions regarding the investment-policy statements.
  - B) do not conform to Standard IV(A): Loyalty to Employer, but his actions regarding the investment-policy statements do.
  - C) do not conform to Standard IV(A): Loyalty to Employer, nor do his actions regarding the investment-policy statements.

Question #164 of 186

Reynolds' promotional material conforms to:

- A) Standard I(C) regarding misrepresentation and Standard III(D) concerning performance presentation, but violates at least one other standard.
  - B) Standard I(C) regarding misrepresentation, but not Standard III(D) concerning performance presentation.
  - C) all Standards.

Question #165 of 186

An analyst has found an investment with what appears to be a great return-to-risk ratio. The analyst double-checks the data for accuracy, keeps careful records, and is careful to not make any misrepresentations as he simultaneously sends an e-mail to all his clients with a "buy" recommendation. According to Standard V(A), Diligence and Reasonable Basis, the analyst has:

- A) fulfilled all obligations.
  - B) violated the Standard by communicating the recommendation via e-mail.
  - C) violated the Standard if he does not verify whether the investment is appropriate for all the clients.

Question #166 of 186

Toni Florence, CFA, CAIA, leases office space to her best friend, Tom Rigs. Florence is an independent investment advisor specializing in high net worth clients and Rigs is a licensed real estate broker. In lieu of paying rent, Rigs refers his real estate clients to Florence, but only with the clients' permission.

For clients referred by Rigs, Florence:

- A) need not disclose the referral fee if Rigs discloses the lease arrangement to the clients first.
- B) need not disclose the terms of the lease arrangement because Rigs obtained the clients' permission for the referral.

C) must disclose the terms of the lease arrangement.

Question #167 of 186

A financial analyst and CFA Institute member sends a preliminary research report on a company to his supervisor. The supervisor approves the report, but then the analyst receives news that causes him to revise downward the earnings estimate of the company. The analyst resubmits the report to the supervisor with the new earnings estimate. The analyst soon finds out that the supervisor plans to release the first version of the report with the first earnings estimate without a reasonable and adequate basis. In response to this the analyst must:

- A) both insist that a follow up report be issued and take up the issue with regulatory authorities.
  - B) insist that the supervisor change the earnings forecast or remove his (the analyst's) name from the report.
  - C) only insist that the first report be followed up by a revision.

Question #168 of 186

An analyst, who is a CFA Institute member, manages a high-grade bond mutual fund. This is his only professional responsibility. When the analyst comes across a speculative stock investment that he feels is a good investment for his personal portfolio, the analyst:

- A) must notify his supervisor about the stock according to Standard VI(B), Priority of Transactions, to see if it is appropriate for the portfolio that he manages.
  - B) is in violation of Standard IV(A), Loyalty to Employer, by spending time analyzing stocks when he should only analyze bonds.
  - C) may invest in the stock because the analyst would not purchase the stock for the bond portfolio he manages.

Question #169 of 186

The following scenarios refer to recommendations made by two analysts.

- Jean King, CFA, is a quantitative analyst at Quantlogic, Inc. King uses computer-generated screens to differentiate value and growth stocks based on accounting numbers such as sales, cash flow, earnings, and book value. Based on her analysis of all domestically traded stocks in the U.S. over the past year, King concludes that value stocks as a class have underperformed growth stocks over that period. Using only this analysis, she recommends that account executives at Quantlogic sell all value stocks from the portfolios for which they have discretionary authority to trade and replace these stocks with growth stocks.
- James Capelli, CFA, is a fundamental analyst at Wheaton Capital Management, which focuses on regional stocks. His analysis of Branson Wireless includes the investment's basic characteristics such as information about historical earnings, ownership of assets, outstanding contracts, and other business factors. In addition to conducting both a general industry analysis and a company financial analysis, Capelli interviews key executives at Branson. Based on his analysis, he concludes that the company's future prospects are strong and issues a "buy" recommendation.

According to CFA Institute Standards of Professional Conduct, did King and Capelli have a reasonable and adequate basis for making their recommendations?

- A) Both King and Capelli have a reasonable basis for their recommendations.
- B) King has a reasonable basis for his recommendation, but Capelli does not.
- C) Capelli has a reasonable basis for his recommendation, but King does not.

Question #170 of 186

Dave Kline, CFA, is a personal investment advisor with 200 individual, family, and corporate accounts. After a dispute with a coworker on margin policy, he formally resigns his position by giving suitable notice. However, he does not follow his firm's established "Transition and Exit Policies" regarding his accounts. The firm's stated policies require him to notify each client of his planned departure and personally introduce them to their new account representative, Greg Potter. Kline sees Potter as a rival and states "...let Potter do his own work and find his own clients." Kline is most likely:

- A) in violation of Standard I(D) "Misconduct" for leaving clients subject to an account representative he does not find suitable.

- B) not in violation of the Code and Standards.
  - C) in violation of Standard IV(A) "Loyalty" for failing to follow the employer's policies and procedures related to notifying clients of his departure.

Question #171 of 186

The Konkol Company implements a new methodology for portfolio valuation that is licensed to them by ABC Statistics. Konkol complies with the CFA Institute Code and Standards by:

- A) discussing the new methodology with the clients, in its entirety.
  - B) not discussing the new methodology with clients because there is no need to, as it will not change their risk and yield preferences.
  - C) discussing the new methodology with clients only when a change in the security selection process is involved.

Question #172 of 186

An analyst has constructed an investment policy statement (IPS) and a portfolio for a new client, Stephanie Sasser. He has also provided written guidelines on the processes used to make investment management decisions. Six months later, Sasser questions the analyst about several portfolio holdings. Due to a large allocation in financial services stocks during a severe market downturn, her portfolio has underperformed the benchmark by a large margin. Although the analyst remembers discussing the over-allocation with Sasser, and receiving her approval, he is unable to find supporting documents. Which of the following Standards has the analyst most likely violated?

- A) Standard V(A) Diligence and Reasonable Basis.
  - B) Standard V(B) Communications with Clients and Prospective Clients.
  - C) Standard V(C) Record Retention.

Question #173 of 186

Victor Logan is a portfolio manager for McCoy Advisors, and Jack Brisco is the Director of Research for McCoy. Brisco has developed a proprietary model that has been thoroughly researched and is known throughout the industry as the McCoy model. The model is purely quantitative and screens stocks into buy, hold, and sell categories. The basic philosophy of the model is thoroughly explained to clients. Brisco frequently alters the model based on rigorous research—an aspect that is well explained to clients, although the specific alterations are not continually disclosed. Portfolio managers then make specific sector and security holding decisions, purchasing only securities that are indicated as "buys" by the model. Logan has conducted very thorough research on his own, using the same process that Brisco uses to validate his findings. Logan feels the model is missing some key elements that would further reduce the list of acceptable securities to purchase, however, Brisco has refused to look at Logan's research. Frustrated by this, Logan applies his own version of the model, with the justification that he is still only purchasing securities on the buy list. Because of the conflict with Brisco, he does not disclose the use of the model to anyone at McCoy or to clients. Which of the following statements regarding Logan and Brisco is CORRECT? Logan is:

- A) not violating the Standards by applying his version of the model, but is violating the Standards by not disclosing it to clients. Brisco is not violating the Standards.
- B) violating the Standards by applying his version of the model and by not disclosing it to clients. Brisco is not violating the Standards.
- C) violating the Standards by applying his version of the model and by not disclosing it to clients. Brisco is violating the Standards by failing to consider Logan's research.

Question #174 of 186

Abner Flome, CFA, is writing a research report on Paulsen Group, an investment advisory firm. Flome's brother-in-law holds shares of Paulsen stock. Flome has recently interviewed for a position with Paulsen and expects a second interview. According to the Standards, Flome's most appropriate action is to disclose in the research report:

- A) his brother-in-law's holding of Paulsen stock and that he is being considered for a job at Paulsen.
- B) that he is being considered for a job at Paulsen.
- C) his brother-in-law's holding of Paulsen stock.

Question #175 of 186

Dwight Dawson, a CFA charterholder and portfolio manager at Ascott Investments, was recently appointed to the investments committee at Brightwood College. He will receive no compensation from Brightwood for serving on this committee. Another person at Ascott manages part of Brightwood's endowment. Dawson does not inform Ascott's compliance office of his involvement with Brightwood, because he does not believe doing so is necessary.

Brenda Hamilton, a CFA candidate, also works for Ascott as an investment analyst. Procedures established at Ascott prohibit personal trading in securities analyzed or recommended by Ascott. One of these securities is Horizon, a telecommunications firm. Hamilton buys 10 shares of Horizon for her infant son's trust account. She believes that reporting this purchase to Ascott's compliance officer is unnecessary because the amount of the transaction is small and is not for her own personal account.

Did Dawson or Hamilton's actions violate CFA Institute Standards of Professional Conduct?

- A) Dawson: No, Hamilton: No.
  - B) Dawson: Yes, Hamilton: Yes.
  - C) Dawson: No, Hamilton: Yes.

Question #176 of 186

An analyst who is a member of CFA Institute has composed an introductory information packet for her new clients, which includes information on fees she receives for referring clients to other professionals and those she pays for having clients referred to her. With respect to Standard VI(C), Referral Fees, this action:

- A) may not satisfy the Standard if such information is only provided after the receivers of the information have become clients.
  - B) is not addressed in the Standard.
  - C) exceeds the requirement of the Standard because she does not need to reveal the fees she pays to those that refer clients to her.

Hunter Harrison, CFA, has recently been promoted to Chief Investment Officer (CIO) of Ironclad Investments, an investment adviser and pension consultant for medium and large corporate pension clients. Ironclad recently hired a compliance officer to update its compliance manual, which is consistent with the CFA Institute Code and Standards. Harrison serves as a director on several non-profit and corporate boards of directors, some of which have their pension assets managed by Ironclad. As part of his new job duties, Harrison will oversee Ironclad's research analysts and portfolio managers, including Michelle Myers, who passed the Level II CFA examination last year and is registered for the next exam. Myers is a portfolio manager who regularly meets with clients and prospects. Myers is also a partner in a software company that sells retirement and benefit administration services to institutional clients, some of which are also clients of Ironclad to whom Myers has recommended the software company. Myers has disclosed her partnership interest in the software company to Ironclad, including the potential for additional compensation and the possible conflicts of interest, but not to her clients.

In her correspondence with prospects and clients, Myers normally refers to her status as a candidate in the CFA Program. Her latest brochure includes a reference to her status as a "Level III CFA candidate" in her biographical background to increase her prominence in the industry. Her targeted marketing efforts using these brochures have led to several new accounts in the last few years.

One of Myers' software clients, Breakthrough Pharmaceuticals (Breakthrough), is a publicly traded corporation that is also held in many of Ironclad's client portfolios. In the course of their business relationship, Breakthrough's CEO informs Myers that the company has been having difficulty making retirement benefit payments, and its pension plan has recently gone from "overfunded" to "significantly underfunded" as a result of market conditions. Breakthrough's CEO indicates to Myers that he is attempting to source additional short-term financing to make retiree benefit payments and will disclose the significant "underfunded status" of the pension plan in the upcoming financial statements. Myers, concerned that Breakthrough's current pension troubles and short-term liquidity issues will negatively affect its earnings and consequently the performance of the company's stock, informs Harrison of the impending disclosure. Harrison allows Myers to sell 1,800,000 shares of Breakthrough stock for clients, causing the price to drop by 5%. When the pension troubles are later disclosed in the company's financial statements, Breakthrough's stock price drops an additional 18%.

As part of Ironclad's portfolio management activities on behalf of its clients, Harrison and Myers maintain relationships with third-party soft dollar providers and commission recapture brokers. Better Trading Brokerage (BTB), one of Ironclad's top ten brokers and soft dollar providers, has offered Harrison two round-trip airline tickets anywhere in the U.S. in appreciation for its 2-year relationship with Ironclad. One of Harrison's pension clients, Worldwind Travel Inc. (WTI), participates in commission recapture and has offered Harrison two roundtrip airline tickets anywhere in the U.S. or Europe in appreciation for its 2-year relationship with Ironclad. Harrison has disclosed both offers to Ironclad in writing but has not yet responded to either offer because he has been busy with proxy voting duties.

Harrison, as CIO, is chairman of Ironclad's proxy voting committee. Myers is also a member of the committee. Ironclad, as a discretionary investment manager, votes proxies through the proxy voting committee on behalf of clients. Ironclad is currently reviewing proxies for several companies covered in research, including technology companies Advanced DSL (Advanced), InterConnect Inc. (InterConnect), Speedy Chip Technology (Speedy Chip), and Wavelength Digital (Wavelength). Each company's current proxy contains voting proposals pertaining to employee stock option expensing methods. This issue is particularly important to Ironclad because several of its investment personnel recently participated in an industry forum that supported increased disclosure for company stock options. The panel concluded that such disclosure will provide investors with a more complete estimate of corporate earnings. Ironclad, through its clients, owns approximately 4% of the outstanding shares of Advanced and InterConnect and approximately 6% of the outstanding shares of Speedy Chip and Wavelength.

Harrison serves on the board of directors for InterConnect and Wavelength, while Myers provides consulting services for Speedy Chip. Harrison receives cash compensation and stock options for his services, while Myers receives restricted stock and stock options. The investment bank that led the public offering of InterConnect and Speedy Chip and seven of nine sell-side analysts covering the companies have "sell" ratings on the stocks. Ironclad's analysts have also issued "sell" recommendations on the companies due to, among other issues, lack of earnings transparency and low earnings quality. Contrary to committee consensus, Harrison and Myers vote client proxies "against" the expensing of employee stock options for InterConnect, Wavelength, and Speedy Chip. Harrison increases his clients' positions in both InterConnect and Wavelength, citing "growth opportunities" and "consensus opinion." Neither Harrison nor Myers has disclosed these compensation arrangements to Ironclad.

Question #183 of 186

Several years ago, Hilton and Ross, a full service investment firm, managed the initial public offering of eCom, Inc. Now, eCom wants Hilton and Ross to underwrite its secondary public offering. A senior manager at Hilton and Ross asks Brent Whitman, CFA, one of its equity analysts, to write a favorable research report on eCom to help make the underwriting a success. Whitman conducts a thorough analysis of eCom and concludes that the company has serious problems that do not suggest a favorable financial outlook. Nevertheless, Whitman writes a favorable report because he is fearful of losing his job. Hilton and Ross publicly distribute a report that only contains a buy recommendation and a brief description of the basic characteristics of eCom. Whitman has violated:

- A) Both Standard I(B) Independence and Objectivity and Standard V(A) Diligence and Reasonable Basis.
  - B) Standard V(A) Diligence and Reasonable Basis only.
  - C) Standard I(B) Independence and Objectivity, only.

Question #185 of 186

Scott LaRue is a portfolio manager for Washington Advisors. Washington has developed a proprietary model that has been thoroughly researched and is known throughout the industry as the Washington model. The model is purely quantitative and screens stocks into buy, hold, and sell categories. The basic philosophy of the model is thoroughly explained to clients. The director of research frequently alters the model based on rigorous research—an aspect that is well explained to clients, although the specific alterations are not continually disclosed. Portfolio managers then make specific sector and security holding decisions, purchasing only securities that are indicated as "buys" by the model. La Rue feels the model would be improved by adding some factors but he has not fully tested this new version of the model. LaRue discloses his model to his own clients but not to his supervisor. LaRue is:

- A) violating the Standards by not having a reasonable and adequate basis for his investment recommendation.
  - B) violating the Standards by not considering the appropriateness of the recommendations to clients.
  - C) not violating the Standards.
